

Are you confused about food allergies / food intolerance? Do you want an expert to help? If you do, then I have written this book for you. I have spent my career in medicine diagnosing and looking after children and families who adversely react to some of the foods they are eating. I want to help many more people solve their food reaction puzzles • Do you want my expert to help? • Do you wonder how you can get diagnosed? • Do you think your children might be getting sick from foods? • Are you suspicious about dairy? wheat? gluten? nuts? soy? additives? • Did you know that I could help you get diagnosed online? This is an eBook to start you on your food allergy quest, guided by an expert. The concept behind this book is to make it easy for you to sort it out, step by step. In the last chapter I tell you all about the eClinic that I have developed over the last 5 years. Using this tool should help you work it out – get it solved! (Please note that there is a small service fee for this tool). “Dr. Rodney Ford (me!) is a pediatric gastroenterologist, allergist and nutrition consultant. He is former Associate Professor of Pediatrics. He is recognized worldwide as an expert on adverse food reactions. He runs The Children’s Clinic and Allergy Centre, a busy private clinic in Christchurch, New Zealand. He has written over one hundred scientific papers, including book chapters and many books.”
