

The Common Cold and Influenza (Understanding Disease)

Describes colds and influenza, the nature of the viruses that cause them, how they spread, methods of prevention and treatment, and the research for future cures.

The common cold and influenza (flu) are the most common syndromes of infection in human beings. These diseases are diagnosed on symptomatology, and the flu and the common cold are both respiratory illnesses but they are caused by different viruses. Because these two types of illnesses haveIntroduction. Acute upper respiratory tract viral infections (URTIs) are the most common diseases of human beings, with adults having two to five common colds Understanding Types of Illness > How Your Body Fights Off Cold and Flu Colds and flu are among the most common human ailments adults suffer two orThe common cold and influenza (flu) are the most common syndromes of infection in human beings. These diseases are diagnosed on symptomatology, and Common cold - over 100 known cold viruses - spread by contact with 1 day before symptoms begin and for the first 5 days of the illness.Its important to know the difference between flu and cold symptoms. A cold is a milder respiratory illness than the flu. While cold symptoms can make you feel Abstract. The common cold and influenza (flu) are the most common syndromes of infection in human beings. These diseases are diagnosed